Design

Westshield's diverse project portfolio means that our staff are experienced in working with all design disciplines. This includes architects, structural engineers, civil engineers and specialists such as geotechnics and M&E.

We have established relationships with a range of local designers, from small design houses through to global multidisciplinary firms. This network gives us access to the specialist knowledge and skills required to meet and deliver on technical challenges.

Where we are engaged on a construct only contract, our aim is a seamless transition between the design and construction phase. Our teams will work with the client's designer to understand the design intent and deliver on the client's vision.

Where we are engaged on a design and build contract, our Project Managers and technical staff have the skills and experience drive the very best outcomes from the design. We create fully integrated design teams who work collaboratively to challenge the design at every stage, from concept through to delivery. We are experienced in Early Contractor Involvement and can use this to create value led solutions – whether that be through value engineering, improved constructability, or providing the client with a greater value for money service.
